SEE POSSIBLE EARLY DETECTION OF MANY DISEASES

New Methods of Scientific Measurement May Lead To Such

SIMPLE APPARATUS

Inexpensive; Could Be Built In Any Well-Equipped Laboratory

This is the last article of a series describing how the tools and methods of physics are being used in post-war medical research.

By Allen R. Dodd, Jr.
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5—(INS)—New methods of scientific measurement may lead eventually to blood tests for the early detection of tuberculosis, certain types of cancer, diseases of the liver and other ailments.

Blood tests are widely used today to detect germs and viruses which invade the bloodstream in some diseases. However, medical physics researchers at Yale University are measuring substances normally found in the blood, such as proteins and fats, for clues to ill health.

These tests are being carried out with the aid of a simple, inexpensive apparatus that could be built in any well-equipped laboratory.

The Medical Physics Grouxlat Yale is composed of young men and women with widely varying backgrounds. They have pooled their talents as physicians, chemists, engineers, physiologists and physicists for a fresh approach to the age-old problems of disease.

Experiments by the Yale medical physics team have indicated that electronic measurements of the proteins found in any normal person's blood can warn of poor health even before the patient begins to feel ill. The actual measurement process is known as electrophoresis, a method very similar to the electroplating of metals.

In the medical physics laboratories, which are filled with geiger

ADDITION BEING BUILT BY CHURCH

Calvary Baptist Sunday School Providing For 750 Students

BIBLE SCHOOL IN TENT

An addition to the educational building which will enable the Calvary Baptist Sunday School to accommodate 750 students is now underway, according to the pastor, Lehman Strauss. October has been marked as the opening and dedication date for the new extension.

To provide for the growing numbers, an end, 50 by 35 feet, with one story and basement, is being added. The basement, which will be one large room, will provide another ample auditorium and Sunday School Department space. The ground floor will be divided into two rooms.

Already over 100 boys ages nine through 18 are being trained weekly through the organization known as The Bristol Boys Brigade and the large basement room is anticipated as an adequate space for the winter indoor activties of this Boys' group.

The additional space will cause the rearrangement of some of the other departments of the Sunday School into larger areas. This change is being looked forward to in time for Promotion Sunday and Rally Day, the last two Sundays in September.

Anticipating an increase in the size of Daily Vacation Bible School, to provide for the present emergency, the church will erect a tent on one end of the grounds for the three weeks of the school, June 9 through 27. The closing exercises of the kindergarten school will be held in this tent Friday morning, June 13. During the next two weeks, the Junior Department of the Grade Bible School will be housed in the tent.

Most of the labor for the erection of the new end of the building is being provided by the men of the church.

Judging To Be Completed In Art Show by 5 P. M.

LANGHORNE, June 5 — Final preparations have been made for the 6th annual art exhibit at Langhorne community house. The hours are from 5 to 10 this evening; from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., June 6th; and 10 a. m. to nine p. m., June 7th.

The eminent artists, Ranulph Bye, George Ramaily and Charles Ward, will judge the exhibit between two and five p. m. today.

Mrs. Charles Paxon of Langhorne, will exhibit four water colors. Two are of the old Biddle homestead in Lansdowne titled "The Briars", one a spring, the other a fall scene. The two remaining ones are of the old Ryder homestead in Baltimore, Md. One scene shows an interesting 200 year old ailanthus tree.

Robert Meyers, Langhorne, will show his marionettes from the Swan Lake Ballet. Mr. Meyers has written a miniature satire-operetta with Madam Hitta Hi-Note as the main character. The accompanist, who gives her a difficult time, will also be shown.

Stanley Sutton, the athletic instructor at George School, who "paints for fun", will show several scenes of his farm in Virginia.

The public school exhibit will be on the second floor. The amateur and student exhibits will be in the handcraft room and the professional work in the main room.

THAT LABOR ISSUE AGAIN

Among the issues which will spell out the future of the American republic, few are more important or more sensitive than the unsolved problem of how the country is to live with the labor movement.

It seems almost incredible that any candidate for the presidency should have been allowed to stay in the race thus far without having stated his position with the utmost exactness.

The Democratic hopefuls, almost without exception, have bowed to the organized might of the labor bosses, and sum up their views by blanket indictment of the Taft-Hartley Act — a rather strange reaction on their part, in view of the fact that when the law was passed over the President's veto, more Democrats in Congress voted for it than against it (126 to 93).

No man who studies carefully the election returns since 1947, starting with the Eighth Pennsylvania (Bucks-Lehigh) contest that fall, and continuing down to the Taft sweep in Ohio two years ago, can find anything to indicate that the majority sentiment of the American people is against the principles of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Yet the strange fact is that almost all Democratic candidates for president oppose this act, and so (tacitly, at least) do nearly all Republican contenders except the man who is its co-author, Senator Taft.

General Eisenhower has had a thousand opportunities to express his sentiments with regard to this law, and his continued silence on it is more eloquent, at this point, than any general statement would be.

But the Taft-Hartley is only one statute; not even that, in fact — it is nothing but an amendment to the Wagner Labor Relations Act, and a suppliment to the Smith-Connelly Law.

Taft himself has agreed to support a number of changes in the Taft-Hartley Act, when and if the votes can be mustered to put them through Congress.

Being "for" or "against" the Taft-Hartley Act is not a full definition of position with reference to labor unions, any more than attitude regarding the Wagner Act, which was a voilently pro-union measure that blandly assumed the premise of all employers being greedy crooks who couldn't be trusted; or the Smith-Connelly Act, which hopefully attempted to carry out the Gompers objetive of keeping the unions out of politics.

Position with regard to the labor issue, as a political equa-

Rescue Squads To Again Drag Rancocas Creek Today, Police Say

CHILD WAS WADING

MT. HOLLY, N. J., June 5 — An 11-year-old girl here is believed to have drowned shortly before six o'clock last evening, according to police.

Emergency squads from five Burlington county municipalities and others from Trenton; Croydon and Bristol, Pa., last evening dragged the Rancocas Creek for the body of Patricia Nutt, who disappeared while wading in the creek near Route 39, Ewansville.

Police reported another search was to be made this morning at nine o'clock.

The daughter of Mrs. Anna Nutt, the child lives in a trailer here with her mother; a brother, Walter, Jr., 15, and two sisters, JoAnn, six, and Veronica, three. Her father is Walter Nutt.

According to State Trooper Albert Hutkowski, the children returned home from Smithsville School and asked permission to wade in the creek. After refusing to give permission for the past week, Mrs. Nutt agreed to let the youngsters wade in the creek but cautioned them not to enter it.

Shortly after arriving at the creek, Walter joined a group of older children. His three sisters and several other girls went in wading. Patricia then announced

POISON FOX CASE HEARD BY JUDGES WITHOUT JURY

Two State Officials Admit Placing Poison Pellets On Farms

DID IT UNDER ORDERS

One Defendant Says He Placed 1500 Poison Pellets in County

DOYLESTOWN, June 5 — Going to trial without a jury Judges Hiram H. Keller and Edward G. Biester heard testimony in a seven-hour trial yesterday in the "poison fox case."

Thomas D. Frye, executive director of the Game Commission, and Edwin W. Flexer, of Quakertown, a Bucks county game protector, the defendants, both admitted placing the poison bait, and said it was at the direction of the commission.

Frye was on trial as a result of his arrest on charges brought by Walter S. Hare, Quakertown attorney, who owns property in Richland township. Hare said he tore down a poison warning sign on the property, although he found no poison bait there.

Henry L. Freking, 74, Richland township magazine publisher, caused the arrest of Flexer. He declared two of his dogs died after they were allowed to run loose near a State game preserve.

"The Pennsylvania Game Commission," Frye testified, "gave me

OTHER INDUSTRY WILL FOLLOW STEEL

Ross Leffler, Steel Executive, Addresses Bucks County Real Estate Board

HOLD PLANT TOUR

MORRISVILLE, June 5 — Members of the Bucks County Real Estate Board yesterday toured the giant Fairless Steel Works now being built in Falls Township and then dined last evening at the Pennsbury Inn. The evening meeting was addressed by Ross L. Leffler, assistant to the executive vice-president in charge of operations of United States Steel.

Leffler told the group that the Fairless Works is only the vanguard of new industrial development which can be expected here in the next few years, and that new plants of fabricators and suppliers may be expected to locate in a broad area on both sides of the river.

"It is traditional that where an integrated steel mill is situated, other industries, both customers and suppliers of steel and industry generally, try to locate new plants in close proximity to enable them to efficiently serve or be served in the industrial period," Leffler said.

"There is every indication that this will happen here. In fact, a number of companies have announced plans for construction of new plants in our immediate area. I would point out, however, that this industrial expansion which can be expected will not be confined to the lower end of Bucks County, but may be reasonably expected to spread throughout the entire county, New Jersey and into Philadelphia."

"It may be expected that many small plants employing a relatively small number of people will

Taft Has Slight Lead in South Dakota

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Final outcome of the South Dakota primary became a big question mark today with Sen. Taft holding a precarious lead of a few hundred votes over Gen. Eisenhower.

The close balloting indicated that only the official canvass, still 11 days distant, could determine which candidate will win the state's 14-man delegation to the Republican presidential nominating convention.

With all except 16 of the state's 1950 precincts reporting Taft had 64,700 and Eisenhower 64,109 votes. In the last 11 precincts reporting, presumably Eisenhower territory, Taft picked up 88 votes and the General 59.

ABA STAYS WITH IT

Laymen will welcome the American Bar Association's announcement that it has opened a vigorous campaign to "eliminate" attorneys who "cooperate" with the underworld and help criminals evade the law. That is one sector of the crime front that should be attacked—and kept under pressure.

Members of the legal profession ought to do the job whether as a group or individually, because they alone are capable of handling it.

Or perhaps it would be closer to the mark to say that they alone can deal with such lawyers without doing violence to the function of the counselor at law. The line between advice on how to stay within the statutes and how to avoid them is not easy to draw, though clearly the attorney who specializes in the latter field is no asset to the cause of law and order.

Perhaps only an attorney can find ways of curbing the one who, in effect, is part of a conspiracy to commit crime.

In any case, it is good to have the association's pledge to "take the leadership in developing the facts and formulating the methods to deal with these individuals." May their wits be as sharp as their intentions are good, a requisite if anything worthwhile is to eventuate from this effort.

HE IMPROVED JELLIES

Prof. George L. Baker of the University of Delaware, who died the other day, was a quiet spoken research chemist to whom thousands of American housewives owe a great deal more than they suspect.

At canning time—or when the housewives bought prepared jellies at the food stores—few of them realized that much of the progress made in the use of pectin was due to the persistent research conducted by Professor Baker on the campus of the Delaware university.

But despite his many contributions to the food industry, and of course to better spreads and desserts on the everyday American table, Professor Baker was always looking for processes that would lighten the burden of the housewife, increase the potentialities of the food industry, and meet the demands of the consumer.

Only recently, Professor Baker reported on the development of a process to aid in the jelling of pineapple and grape without the necessity of adding too much sugar. One of the nation's pioneers in the application of chemistry to food processes, Professor Baker exemplified the contribution science makes to better living.

The time approaches for the home gardener to check up on seed catalog pictures, to confirm his suspicion that he is still a sucker.

KLEIN'S BAT WINS FOR AUTO BOYS OVER PACIFIC

A home run and two-bagger by "Chuck" Klein enabled Auto Boys to win over Pacific Steel, 6-4, in nine innings last evening on Memorial Park diamond.

In the top of the seventh with two out, Joe Garafota walked. Klein picked out a pitch to his liking and lined it between right and center for an easy home run, tying the score at 4-4.

In the second frame, Klein stepped to the plate with Vito Marseglia on base and promptly dumped a two-bagger into left field to score Marseglia with the winning run.

Marseglia was the winning pitcher with Garafota being tagged with the loss. Klein had a single in addition to his homer and double to give him three out of four for the evening. Johnny Frank finally snapped out of his slump and socked a home run and triple. His homer rolled to the fence in left field, one of the longest hits made this season.

Auto Boys had nine hits with Pacific getting six.

SINGLE BY LEWIS IN EIGHTH WINS GAME

A single by "Amy" Lewis in the eighth frame gave Minnesota Mining a triumph over Fifth Ward Sporting Club last evening on Conti's field in a Bristol Softball League game. It marked the first loss in seven starts for the Warders.

The score was tied at 10-10 when the scotch-tape makers took their turn in the last half of the extra canto. With one out, Chuck Hinkle doubled. Al Ciambella and Joe Cahill drew walks to load the bags. George Wallace flied out but Lewis delivered a hit to center to give 3M's a 11-10 win. It was Lewis' fourth hit of the contest. He was also the winning pitcher.

Henry Liberatore was the losing twirler although he was relieved by Pete Mancini in the 8th. For the Warders, Vic Cauti had a triple and three singles and Liberatore a double and two one-base knocks.

"I feel that the welfare and safety of the people of Pennsylvania come first, and we are also considering the welfare of the livestock and wildlife."

Flexer told the court that he took orders from his divisional supervisor, and that he placed 1500 poison baits in various sections of Bucks county over a two-week period.

situate in towns and cities within easy trucking distance of Fairless Works, and that they in turn will attract suppliers and service industries even smaller in size. It is difficult to estimate the total impact of new industry which will be the direct and indirect result of our arrival in Bucks County, but it is safe to say that it will be substantial over the next five years and more."

Leffler also told the realtors that deepening of the Delaware River channel to 40 feet will be a tremendous impetus to industrial expansion in the Delaware Valley.

He pointed out that the present channel has brought revenue to the federal government totaling nearly 10 times the cost of dredging and maintaining the channel, and that it is economically practical to provide a deeper channel from Trenton to the sea.

A total of 125 members made the tour. Maurice Biederman, vice-president of Levitt & Sons, Inc., served as guide for the tour of Levittown; and George Galbreath provided guides for the tour of Fairless Hills.

Dinner guests of the association were Mr. Biederman; John J. Appleyard, public relations director of the Fairless plant; and Congressman Karl C. King, of Bucks-Lehigh district.

Richard W. Fechtenburg, Eddington, president of the realtors association, reported on activities of the board. The annual picnic was announced for June 26th at Doylestown country club. The next issue of "The Realtor" will be published next week, members were informed. Ten affiliate and one active member were accepted last evening.

Convention Hall, Phila., was dedicated Sept. 17, 1931.

The Commission agreed to final approval of the following subdivisions for reasons noted below: George H. Wetherill, Bristol township — in order to coordinate lot sizes within the development, while the approved lot size at 60 feet is below the Commission's standards, it is 10 feet wider than the adjacent lots already developed in the sub-division; Fairview Park, Bensalem township — due to the advanced stage of development, all lots have a 50 foot frontage, which are not yet sold, have been increased to 75 or 100 feet.

Report was made that Franklin Wood had attended nine meetings during the month. In Bristol township, Bristol Borough, met with officials of Gloucester County, N. J. at Doyiestown; Planning Conference at Rutgers University, N. J. and zoning hearings at Warrington and Bristol townships, with zoning commission in Falls township.

He presented a progress report on hgihway studies, giving a resume of land sub-divisions and other planning studies.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Courier:

Please print this letter for us. We are the fans who saw the baseball game Monday, June 2 at 6:30 p. m.

The Giants and Hawks met at Leedom's field. A good game was played, but we don't agree with the score. In the courier on Tuesday June 3. We want to let the public know what happened. The game started at 6:30 p. m.. The Giants took a one to nothing lead in the first inning. In the third the Hawks tied the score. The regulation seven innings were played, and the managers agreed to play more ball and in the first of the eighth, the first batter was out, the next two batters got hits and a run scored. So the Hawks manager put in another pitcher, the Hawks manager called time and the Hawks just let two more runs score. Now time was called several times, now we agree with this to a certain extent. So what happens now, the Hawks pitcher starts walking the batters, the Giants manager told his team to strike out where the game could be played, but this was it. The Hawkes refused to play ball, when the catcher got the ball he would drop it and kick it, then threw it into centerfield on purpose, no attempt was made to get the ball.

Now umpire Hetherington called the game, now we agree with this. If he would have given the Giants the game, but no, he says a tie score. Now how can an umpire call the game when it is not raining or dark. It was only 8:10 p. m. when the game was called, when the game could have been played thrity minutes more. Not even umpire Cahall agreed with umpire Hetherington, what we want to know is, isn't the boys out there to build themselves physically and learn good sportsmanship? We also can't agree that good sportsmanship was shown by a few persons. The Giants manager only coment was, that he was sorry it happened and that he hoped the arbitration board would act on this. We fans feel the league officials should meet with the managers and umpires and iron out this bad sportsmanship.

Sincerely,
GIANT FANS

United Labor Selects Room in Hospital

Labors first contact with the hospital organization was established through Warren Jennings, now public relations vice-chairman, who acknowledged Labor's activities in behalf of the hospital as follows: "The record shows that organized labor was active in the hospital endeavor, working for it's interest before the hospital was organized. Labor, through the Lower Bucks County C. I. O. Council, was the first on record with their resolution supporting the hospital project and pledging their financial support. In this, Organized Labor has made good not only by subscribing to the unit above listed, but also by their individual membership contribution pledges which make up the bulk of the total employee subscriptions. The Union membership under this group now exceeds 11,000.

"The United Labor Hospital Committee and their affiliated organized Locals were, by their active endeavors, instrumental in helping crystalize the thought of the hospital movement within the service area. Once they began active participation, members of Labor's Family aided considerably in solidifying the hospital opportunity. Many from this group, active in other civic organizations, took up the work for our hospital. Many organizations followed Labor's lead with their own resolutions of hospital support. Were it not for the importance and effectiveness of these resolutions at the time they were needed, it is doubtful if the hospital would have enjoyed the success it has or be as far advanced as it is today.

"Our hospital is a community affair needing full support from Labor, Community, Industry and the Medical Profession. The fact that Labor has been in the vanguard of the movement from nearly the beginning does not deter the value from the others, but rather lent moral strength to the others efforts. Labor holds a position of importance in assuring our hospital's ultimate success and, in cooperation with Industry, the Community and the Medical Doctors, Labor's continued active participation in the hospital's behalf forecasts an auspicious future for our hospital."

PERKASIE PARADE TO END FESTIVAL

Several Upper Bucks Communities To Join In the Affair on Saturday

ANTICIPATE 48 FLOATS

PERKASIE, June 5 — Several Bucks County communities will climax a week-long celebration of spring on Saturday with a parade of flower-decked floats winding through Perkasie.

Forty-eight floats will move from 3rd and Walnut streets through the main streets of the town to Menlo Park to conclude the second annual Pennridge Flower Festival.

Prizes will be awarded to floats and to winners of a turtle derby that night in the park.

The festival opened last Friday with a ball at the Perkasie Owls Club where a king and queen chosen from students at Deep Run Valley and Sell-Perk high schools were crowned.

The turtle derby begins tomorrow night. One hundred and ten turtles, captured by children in the woods round Perkasie, will "race" from the center of a 60-foot circle in the park.

They will compete in groups of ten. The 11 winners will take part in finals Saturday night and the others will be released into the woods at the end of each race.

Other events during the week will include band concerts, a wrestling demonstration and a square dance exhibition.

A midway—booths sponsored by churches, civic organizations and veterans' groups—has been set up down the center of the park.

A flower show will be held at the park from Thursday through Saturday in a special pavilion.

Proceeds from the festival, sponsored by the Perkasie Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be used to buy trees and shrubs for playgrounds in the Pennridge area.

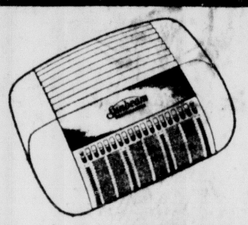

The committee in charge last year purchased 90 dogwood trees, 60 flowering crab trees and some azaleas for the section.

Residents of Dublin, Silverdale, Sellersville and Perkasie and Hilltown, Bedminster and East and West Rockhill townships are taking part. Co-chairmen are J. Robert Hunsicker and Harold O. Gross, both of Perkasie.

ounters and other complicated quipment, the electrophoresis apparatus is surprisingly simple. It onsists of two plastic boxes, a arrow sheet of glass and a strap paper.

This simplicity is its greatest rtue.

The principle of electrophoresis not new. Bulky, expensive deces costing up to $9,000 and reiring trained operators have en in use for some time.

However the Yale medical ysics team has modified and imoved an apparatus first designed Sweden. It can be constructed any properly equipped laborary for about $100 and it can be erated by any laboratory technician.

The electrophoresis measureents are based on the functions the human liver.

The ancient poets believed that e liver was the seat of all human notions. Modern physicians do ot believe that love comes from e liver, but they do know that is vital organ can be an impornt index to the condition of the ntire body.

Some of the proteins which circlate in the bloodstream are proced in the liver. Any degenerave disease will affect the producon of these proteins long before e usual, outward symptoms apear.

If the protein molecules are laced in an electrical field they ill move. The Yale scientists can easure the differences between e movement of protein molecules om the blood of a healthy person d molecules from the blood of a sease victim.

A simple strip of wet paper is the art of the Yale group's appatus. This strip of wet paper has electrical field moving through

The Yale scientists place a tiny op of blood plasma from a pant on the paper. Immediately the rious molecules in the plasma gin to move invisibly along the rip.

After a certain time the paper is moved from the apparatus and aced in a dye. The path of the oving molecules appears as a ng, blue stain and the scientists n measure the distance and rate movement.

The measurements of each samе of blood plasma are plotted refully on charts. Once this has en done even the untrained eye n notice the differences between e curved lines labelled "normal" d the charts marked "cirrhosis the liver," "tuberculosis" and oronary thrombosis" (heart disse).

Centrifugal force also has proved valuable tool in the Yale group's udy of disease.

The medical physics team's rearch into hardening of the arters has been helped by a device known as the ultracentrifuge. The ultracentrifuge is a "merry-go-round" which whirls special plastic test tubes at speeds as high as between 40 and 60 thousand revolutions per minute.

Every small boy knows that a tin can filled with water can be whirled around at the end of a string without spilling a drop of the water. Centrifugal force is the pressure that holds the water in the can.

In the ultracentrifuge used by the Yale group this pressure can rise to 250 thousand times as great as the earth's gravitational pull. Under this tremendous force the different molecules in the sample of blood plasma separate, the heaviest at the bottom of the test tube.

The scientists are studying cholesterol, a substance found in every normal person's bloodstream. Hardening of the arteries occurs when this fatty substance begins to build up along the inside walls of the patient's arteries in lumps which the physicians call plaques. These lumps narrow the bore of the artery until blood clots form, often leading to heart attacks, strokes or apoplexy.

Blood samples from patients are placed in the ultracentrifuge, which is surrounded by heavy steel shields to protect the scientists if it should fly apart.

The "merry-go-round" begins to revolve, whirling the plastic test tubes at greater and greater speed until the tremendous pressure causes the molecules in the blood sample to separate. Then the concentrations of molecules are photographed with a special camera while the ultracentrifuge is whirling at thousands of revoiutions per minute.

The "merry-go-round" is but one of the many applications of the science of physics in the field of medicine. Radioactive isotopes, electronic devices and many other modern tools have contributed to the development of medical physics, a new branch of science in the atomic age.

As their last activity of the term, the sophomore class of Delhaas High School will spend Saturday, at Willow Grove Amusement Park.

The class, under the guidance of Thomas Jenkins, class adviser, plans to leave from the high school at nine o'clock on school buses. The class plans to spend the day there, and a picnic grove will be reserved which will be used by the group to eat a light lunch. They plan to return to Bristol Township about five in the afternoon.

The entire class selected this as their activity, and the day was planned by a committee of eight persons: the four class officers, James Bustraan, president: Ruth Ehrenfried, vice president; Eileen Kling, secretary; Sandra Bromiley, treasurer; and four others, George Manley, Lee Polk, Joan Weisser, and Philip Bianco.

On Friday, Walter, Jr., was transferred to Harriman Hospital, Bristol, where he remains a patient.

That Labor Issue Again

tion, is determined by one's attitude concerning a number of lesser matters.

For instance, is the right to strike a complete and unlimited right, as the labor bosses maintain, or one which is subject to the public's interest and the general welfare?

For that matter, is organized labor one element among many in our national make-up, or is it, as so many labor spokesmen have argued, itself "the whole public"?

Should labor unions, like all other associations of human beings, be responsible for their actions and their agreements, liable for torts and breaches of contracts, enjoinable, etc.; or do they enjoy a special status of being beyond and superior to ordinary rules of conduct and statutory restrictions?

Are labor monopolies, under which one man, or three, or four, can dictate whether millions work or stay home — are these "combinations in restraint of trade" which are, or should be, banned under the anti-trust laws?

Should labor unions or labor bosses be allowed to "buy" political parties, as John L. Lewis and Sidney Hillman both did with the Democratic party, under Roosevelt, just so long as they can find individuals or parties willing thus to debase themselves; or should labor unions be placed under the same interdiction against political activities as corporations — a restriction embodied in both the Smith-Connelly Act and the Taft-Hartley Act, and voided in both of them by the indefensible method of non-enforcement joined in by two successive New Deal presidents and their attorneys general.

Most important of all, what is the ultimate theory concerning enforcement of labor legislation — immunity from such enforcement, which is the Communist idea, "dictatorship of the proletariat," actually the concept of many American labor leaders, whether they will admit it or not; or secondly, enforcement through police agencies and courts of law, which leads ultimately to the well-known "yellow-dog" epithet being applied to injunctions; or thirdly, through military force, which was the remedy urged six years ago by President Truman for the railway strike, and prevented from being enacted into law only by the eloquence of Senator Taft.

There are other kindred questions, but these are sufficient to show the nature of the statements which should be forthcoming from General Eisenhower to elaborate his own attitude on labor policy with sufficient definiteness for the American people to decide whether it is or isn't what they want.

Telephone People

You often hear people say, "He's a telephone man." Or "She's a telephone girl." And just by the way they say it, you can tell it's a compliment. There are good reasons why people generally feel that way. The telephone business is concerned almost entirely with giving service to the public. Telephone people quickly develop a spirit of helpfulness and a courteous attitude toward others, not only "on the job," but in their personal affairs as well.

EVERYDAY MIRACLE

An 8-year-old schoolgirl, caught in a downpour, calls to ask that the family car come to her rescue. A farmer picks up his telephone, orders for immediate delivery the new part he needs for his tractor. A home telephone rings, and the housewife accepts an invitation to needed relaxation at a luncheon. Truly, the telephone is so much a part of our daily lives we seldom stop to consider what a marvelous thing it is—or what we'd ever do without it.

Ps AND Qs

When your telephone rings, do you answer as quickly as possible? And when you make a call, are you patient while waiting for the party to answer? If so you're doubly right. Be Patient when calling, be Quick to answer when it's your telephone that rings. These Ps and Qs of telephone courtesy will keep many a call from being lost. They'll save you the trouble of making these calls all over again. And they'll save you . . . and others . . . the bother of answering a call after the party has hung up.

SEE POSSIBLE EARLY DETECTION OF MANY DISEASES

New Methods of Scientific Measurement May Lead To Such

SIMPLE APPARATUS

Inexpensive; Could Be Built In Any Well-Equipped Laboratory

This is the last article of a series describing how the tools and methods of physics are being used in post-war medical research.

By Allen R. Dodd, Jr.
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5—(INS)—New methods of scientific measurement may lead eventually to blood tests for the early detection of tuberculosis, certain types of cancer, diseases of the liver and other ailments.

Blood tests are widely used today to detect germs and viruses which invade the bloodstream in some diseases. However, medical physics researchers at Yale University are measuring substances normally found in the blood, such as proteins and fats, for clues to ill health.

These tests are being carried out with the aid of a simple, inexpensive apparatus that could be built in any well-equipped laboratory.

The Medical Physics Grouxlat Yale is composed of young men and women with widely varying backgrounds. They have pooled their talents as physicians, chemists, engineers, physiologists and physicists for a fresh approach to the age-old problems of disease.

Experiments by the Yale medical physics team have indicated that electronic measurements of the proteins found in any normal person's blood can warn of poor health even before the patient begins to feel ill. The actual measurement process is known as electrophoresis, a method very similar to the electroplating of metals.

In the medical physics laboratories, which are filled with geiger

ADDITION BEING BUILT BY CHURCH

Calvary Baptist Sunday School Providing For 750 Students

BIBLE SCHOOL IN TENT

An addition to the educational building which will enable the Calvary Baptist Sunday School to accommodate 750 students is now underway, according to the pastor, Lehman Strauss. October has been marked as the opening and dedication date for the new extension.

To provide for the growing numbers, an end, 50 by 35 feet, with one story and basement, is being added. The basement, which will be one large room, will provide another ample auditorium and Sunday School Department space. The ground floor will be divided into two rooms.

Already over 100 boys ages nine through 18 are being trained weekly through the organization known as The Bristol Boys Brigade and the large basement room is anticipated as an adequate space for the winter indoor activties of this Boys' group.

The additional space will cause the rearrangement of some of the other departments of the Sunday School into larger areas. This change is being looked forward to in time for Promotion Sunday and Rally Day, the last two Sundays in September.

Anticipating an increase in the size of Daily Vacation Bible School, to provide for the present emergency, the church will erect a tent on one end of the grounds for the three weeks of the school, June 9 through 27. The closing exercises of the kindergarten school will be held in this tent Friday morning, June 13. During the next two weeks, the Junior Department of the Grade Bible School will be housed in the tent.

Most of the labor for the erection of the new end of the building is being provided by the men of the church.

Judging To Be Completed In Art Show by 5 P. M.

LANGHORNE, June 5 — Final preparations have been made for the 6th annual art exhibit at Langhorne community house. The hours are from 5 to 10 this evening; from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., June 6th; and 10 a. m. to nine p. m., June 7th.

The eminent artists, Ranulph Bye, George Ramaily and Charles Ward, will judge the exhibit between two and five p. m. today.

Mrs. Charles Paxon of Langhorne, will exhibit four water colors. Two are of the old Biddle homestead in Lansdowne titled "The Briars", one a spring, the other a fall scene. The two remaining ones are of the old Ryder homestead in Baltimore, Md. One scene shows an interesting 200 year old ailanthus tree.

Robert Meyers, Langhorne, will show his marionettes from the Swan Lake Ballet. Mr. Meyers has written a miniature satire-operetta with Madam Hitta Hi-Note as the main character. The accompanist, who gives her a difficult time, will also be shown.

Stanley Sutton, the athletic instructor at George School, who "paints for fun", will show several scenes of his farm in Virginia.

The public school exhibit will be on the second floor. The amateur and student exhibits will be in the handcraft room and the professional work in the main room.

THAT LABOR ISSUE AGAIN

Among the issues which will spell out the future of the American republic, few are more important or more sensitive than the unsolved problem of how the country is to live with the labor movement.

It seems almost incredible that any candidate for the presidency should have been allowed to stay in the race thus far without having stated his position with the utmost exactness.

The Democratic hopefuls, almost without exception, have bowed to the organized might of the labor bosses, and sum up their views by blanket indictment of the Taft-Hartley Act — a rather strange reaction on their part, in view of the fact that when the law was passed over the President's veto, more Democrats in Congress voted for it than against it (126 to 93).

No man who studies carefully the election returns since 1947, starting with the Eighth Pennsylvania (Bucks-Lehigh) contest that fall, and continuing down to the Taft sweep in Ohio two years ago, can find anything to indicate that the majority sentiment of the American people is against the principles of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Yet the strange fact is that almost all Democratic candidates for president oppose this act, and so (tacitly, at least) do nearly all Republican contenders except the man who is its co-author, Senator Taft.

General Eisenhower has had a thousand opportunities to express his sentiments with regard to this law, and his continued silence on it is more eloquent, at this point, than any general statement would be.

But the Taft-Hartley is only one statute; not even that, in fact — it is nothing but an amendment to the Wagner Labor Relations Act, and a suppliment to the Smith-Connelly Law.

Taft himself has agreed to support a number of changes in the Taft-Hartley Act, when and if the votes can be mustered to put them through Congress.

Being "for" or "against" the Taft-Hartley Act is not a full definition of position with reference to labor unions, any more than attitude regarding the Wagner Act, which was a voilently pro-union measure that blandly assumed the premise of all employers being greedy crooks who couldn't be trusted; or the Smith-Connelly Act, which hopefully attempted to carry out the Gompers objetive of keeping the unions out of politics.

Position with regard to the labor issue, as a political equa-

In making known Labor's agreement on the memorial selection, the Committee Chairman, Frank Flatch stated; "For many years Labor's representatives have negotiated to obtain hospital benefits for our members. We realize that these benefits are really not effective until our members actually reach a hospital. Labor wants this hospital and we want it to be an institution that Labor's family will be proud to patronize. The Lower Bucks County Hospital will be the

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR DROWNED CHILD

Rescue Squads To Again Drag Rancocas Creek Today, Police Say

CHILD WAS WADING

MT. HOLLY, N. J., June 5 — An 11-year-old girl here is believed to have drowned shortly before six o'clock last evening, according to police.

Emergency squads from five Burlington county municipalities and others from Trenton; Croydon and Bristol, Pa., last evening dragged the Rancocas Creek for the body of Patricia Nutt, who disappeared while wading in the creek near Route 39, Ewansville.

Police reported another search was to be made this morning at nine o'clock.

The daughter of Mrs. Anna Nutt, the child lives in a trailer here with her mother; a brother, Walter, Jr., 15, and two sisters, JoAnn, six, and Veronica, three. Her father is Walter Nutt.

According to State Trooper Albert Hutkowski, the children returned home from Smithsville School and asked permission to wade in the creek. After refusing to give permission for the past week, Mrs. Nutt agreed to let the youngsters wade in the creek but cautioned them not to enter it.

Shortly after arriving at the creek, Walter joined a group of older children. His three sisters and several other girls went in wading. Patricia then announced

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Taft Has Slight Lead in South Dakota

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Final outcome of the South Dakota primary became a big question mark today with Sen. Taft holding a precarious lead of a few hundred votes over Gen. Eisenhower.

The close balloting indicated that only the official canvass, still 11 days distant, could determine which candidate will win the state's 14-man delegation to the Republican presidential nominating convention.

With all except 16 of the state's 1950 precincts reporting Taft had 64,700 and Eisenhower 64,109 votes. In the last 11 precincts reporting, presumably Eisenhower territory, Taft picked up 88 votes and the General 59.

POISON FOX CASE HEARD BY JUDGES WITHOUT JURY

One Defendant Says He Placed 1500 Poison Pellets in County

DOYLESTOWN, June 5 — Going to trial without a jury Judges Hiram H. Keller and Edward G. Biester heard testimony in a seven-hour trial yesterday in the "poison fox case."

Thomas D. Frye, executive director of the Game Commission, and Edwin W. Flexer, of Quakertown, a Bucks county game protector, the defendants, both admitted placing the poison bait, and said it was at the direction of the commission.

Frye was on trial as a result of his arrest on charges brought by Walter S. Hare, Quakertown attorney, who owns property in Richland township. Hare said he tore down a poison warning sign on the property, although he found no poison bait there.

Henry L. Freking, 74, Richland township magazine publisher, caused the arrest of Flexer. He declared two of his dogs died after they were allowed to run loose near a State game preserve.

HOLD PLANT TOUR

MORRISVILLE, June 5 — Members of the Bucks County Real Estate Board yesterday toured the giant Fairless Steel Works now being built in Falls Township and then dined last evening at the Pennsbury Inn. The evening meeting was addressed by Ross L. Leffler, assistant to the executive vice-president in charge of operations of United States Steel.

Leffler told the group that the Fairless Works is only the vanguard of new industrial development which can be expected here in the next few years, and that new plants of fabricators and suppliers may be expected to locate in a broad area on both sides of the river.

"It is traditional that where an integrated steel mill is situated, other industries, both customers and suppliers of steel and industry generally, try to locate new plants in close proximity to enable them to efficiently serve or be served in the industrial period," Leffler said.

"There is every indication that this will happen here. In fact, a number of companies have announced plans for construction of new plants in our immediate area. I would point out, however, that this industrial expansion which can be expected will not be confined to the lower end of Bucks County, but may be reasonably expected to spread throughout the entire county, New Jersey and into Philadelphia."

"It may be expected that many small plants employing a relatively small number of people will

ABA STAYS WITH IT

Laymen will welcome the American Bar Association's announcement that it has opened a vigorous campaign to "eliminate" attorneys who "cooperate" with the underworld and help criminals evade the law. That is one sector of the crime front that should be attacked—and kept under pressure.

Members of the legal profession ought to do the job whether as a group or individually, because they alone are capable of handling it.

Or perhaps it would be closer to the mark to say that they alone can deal with such lawyers without doing violence to the function of the counselor at law. The line between advice on how to stay within the statutes and how to avoid them is not easy to draw, though clearly the attorney who specializes in the latter field is no asset to the cause of law and order.

Perhaps only an attorney can find ways of curbing the one who, in effect, is part of a conspiracy to commit crime.

In any case, it is good to have the association's pledge to "take the leadership in developing the facts and formulating the methods to deal with these individuals." May their wits be as sharp as their intentions are good, a requisite if anything worthwhile is to eventuate from this effort.

HE IMPROVED JELLIES

Prof. George L. Baker of the University of Delaware, who died the other day, was a quiet spoken research chemist to whom thousands of American housewives owe a great deal more than they suspect.

At canning time—or when the housewives bought prepared jellies at the food stores—few of them realized that much of the progress made in the use of pectin was due to the persistent research conducted by Professor Baker on the campus of the Delaware university.

But despite his many contributions to the food industry, and of course to better spreads and desserts on the everyday American table, Professor Baker was always looking for processes that would lighten the burden of the housewife, increase the potentialities of the food industry, and meet the demands of the consumer.

Only recently, Professor Baker reported on the development of a process to aid in the jelling of pineapple and grape without the necessity of adding too much sugar. One of the nation's pioneers in the application of chemistry to food processes, Professor Baker exemplified the contribution science makes to better living.

The time approaches for the home gardener to check up on seed catalog pictures, to confirm his suspicion that he is still a sucker.

KLEIN'S BAT WINS FOR AUTO BOYS OVER PACIFIC

A home run and two-bagger by "Chuck" Klein enabled Auto Boys to win over Pacific Steel, 6-4, in nine innings last evening on Memorial Park diamond.

In the top of the seventh with two out, Joe Garafota walked. Klein picked out a pitch to his liking and lined it between right and center for an easy home run, tying the score at 4-4.

In the second frame, Klein stepped to the plate with Vito Marseglia on base and promptly dumped a two-bagger into left field to score Marseglia with the winning run.

Marseglia was the winning pitcher with Garafota being tagged with the loss. Klein had a single in addition to his homer and double to give him three out of four for the evening. Johnny Frank finally snapped out of his slump and socked a home run and triple. His homer rolled to the fence in left field, one of the longest hits made this season.

Auto Boys had nine hits with Pacific getting six.

situate in towns and cities within easy trucking distance of Fairless Works, and that they in turn will attract suppliers and service industries even smaller in size. It is difficult to estimate the total impact of new industry which will be the direct and indirect result of our arrival in Bucks County, but it is safe to say that it will be substantial over the next five years and more."

Leffler also told the realtors that deepening of the Delaware River channel to 40 feet will be a tremendous impetus to industrial expansion in the Delaware Valley.

He pointed out that the present channel has brought revenue to the federal government totaling nearly 10 times the cost of dredging and maintaining the channel, and that it is economically practical to provide a deeper channel from Trenton to the sea.

A total of 125 members made the tour. Maurice Biederman, vice-president of Levitt & Sons, Inc., served as guide for the tour of Levittown; and George Galbreath provided guides for the tour of Fairless Hills.

Dinner guests of the association were Mr. Biederman; John J. Appleyard, public relations director of the Fairless plant; and Congressman Karl C. King, of Bucks-Lehigh district.

Richard W. Fechtenburg, Eddington, president of the realtors association, reported on activities of the board. The annual picnic was announced for June 26th at Doylestown country club. The next issue of "The Realtor" will be published next week, members were informed. Ten affiliate and one active member were accepted last evening.

The Giants and Hawks met at Leedom's field. A good game was played, but we don't agree with the score. In the courier on Tuesday June 3. We want to let the public know what happened. The game started at 6:30 p. m.. The Giants took a one to nothing lead in the first inning. In the third the Hawks tied the score. The regulation seven innings were played, and the managers agreed to play more ball and in the first of the eighth, the first batter was out, the next two batters got hits and a run scored. So the Hawks manager put in another pitcher, the Hawks manager called time and the Hawks just let two more runs score. Now time was called several times, now we agree with this to a certain extent. So what happens now, the Hawks pitcher starts walking the batters, the Giants manager told his team to strike out where the game could be played, but this was it. The Hawkes refused to play ball, when the catcher got the ball he would drop it and kick it, then threw it into centerfield on purpose, no attempt was made to get the ball.

Now umpire Hetherington called the game, now we agree with this. If he would have given the Giants the game, but no, he says a tie score. Now how can an umpire call the game when it is not raining or dark. It was only 8:10 p. m. when the game was called, when the game could have been played thrity minutes more. Not even umpire Cahall agreed with umpire Hetherington, what we want to know is, isn't the boys out there to build themselves physically and learn good sportsmanship? We also can't agree that good sportsmanship was shown by a few persons. The Giants manager only coment was, that he was sorry it happened and that he hoped the arbitration board would act on this. We fans feel the league officials should meet with the managers and umpires and iron out this bad sportsmanship.

Sincerely,
GIANT FANS

United Labor Selects Room in Hospital

Labors first contact with the hospital organization was established through Warren Jennings, now public relations vice-chairman, who acknowledged Labor's activities in behalf of the hospital as follows: "The record shows that organized labor was active in the hospital endeavor, working for it's interest before the hospital was organized. Labor, through the Lower Bucks County C. I. O. Council, was the first on record with their resolution supporting the hospital project and pledging their financial support. In this, Organized Labor has made good not only by subscribing to the unit above listed, but also by their individual membership contribution pledges which make up the bulk of the total employee subscriptions. The Union membership under this group now exceeds 11,000.

"The United Labor Hospital Committee and their affiliated organized Locals were, by their active endeavors, instrumental in helping crystalize the thought of the hospital movement within the service area. Once they began active participation, members of Labor's Family aided considerably in solidifying the hospital opportunity. Many from this group, active in other civic organizations, took up the work for our hospital. Many organizations followed Labor's lead with their own resolutions of hospital support. Were it not for the importance and effectiveness of these resolutions at the time they were needed, it is doubtful if the hospital would have enjoyed the success it has or be as far advanced as it is today.

"Our hospital is a community affair needing full support from Labor, Community, Industry and the Medical Profession. The fact that Labor has been in the vanguard of the movement from nearly the beginning does not deter the value from the others, but rather lent moral strength to the others efforts. Labor holds a position of importance in assuring our hospital's ultimate success and, in cooperation with Industry, the Community and the Medical Doctors, Labor's continued active participation in the hospital's behalf forecasts an auspicious future for our hospital."

PERKASIE PARADE TO END FESTIVAL

Several Upper Bucks Communities To Join In the Affair on Saturday

ANTICIPATE 48 FLOATS

PERKASIE, June 5 — Several Bucks County communities will climax a week-long celebration of spring on Saturday with a parade of flower-decked floats winding through Perkasie.

Forty-eight floats will move from 3rd and Walnut streets through the main streets of the town to Menlo Park to conclude the second annual Pennridge Flower Festival.

Prizes will be awarded to floats and to winners of a turtle derby that night in the park.

The festival opened last Friday with a ball at the Perkasie Owls Club where a king and queen chosen from students at Deep Run Valley and Sell-Perk high schools were crowned.

The turtle derby begins tomorrow night. One hundred and ten turtles, captured by children in the woods round Perkasie, will "race" from the center of a 60-foot circle in the park.

They will compete in groups of ten. The 11 winners will take part in finals Saturday night and the others will be released into the woods at the end of each race.

Other events during the week will include band concerts, a wrestling demonstration and a square dance exhibition.

A midway—booths sponsored by churches, civic organizations and veterans' groups—has been set up down the center of the park.

A flower show will be held at the park from Thursday through Saturday in a special pavilion.

Proceeds from the festival, sponsored by the Perkasie Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be used to buy trees and shrubs for playgrounds in the Pennridge area.

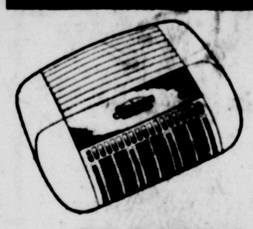

The committee in charge last year purchased 90 dogwood trees, 60 flowering crab trees and some azaleas for the section.

Residents of Dublin, Silverdale, Sellersville and Perkasie and Hilltown, Bedminster and East and West Rockhill townships are taking part. Co-chairmen are J. Robert Hunsicker and Harold O. Gross, both of Perkasie.

unters and other complicated uipment, the electrophoresis ap- aratus is surprisingly simple. It onsists of two plastic boxes, a arrow sheet of glass and a strap paper.

This simplicity is its greatest rtue.

The principle of electrophoresis not new. Bulky, expensive de- ces costing up to $9,000 and re- iring trained operators have en in use for some time.

However the Yale medical ysics team has modified and im- oved an apparatus first designed Sweden. It can be constructed any properly equipped labora- ry for about $100 and it can be erated by any laboratory tech- cian.

The electrophoresis measure- ents are based on the functions the human liver.

The ancient poets believed that e liver was the seat of all human notions. Modern physicians do ot believe that love comes from e liver, but they do know that is vital organ can be an impor- nt index to the condition of the ntire body.

Some of the proteins which cir- ulate in the bloodstream are pro- ced in the liver. Any degenera- ve disease will affect the produc- on of these proteins long before e usual, outward symptoms ap- ear.

If the protein molecules are aced in an electrical field they ill move. The Yale scientists can easure the differences between e movement of protein molecules om the blood of a healthy person d molecules from the blood of a sease victim.

A simple strip of wet paper is the art of the Yale group's appa- tus. This strip of wet paper has electrical field moving through

The Yale scientists place a tiny op of blood plasma from a pa- nt on the paper. Immediately the rious molecules in the plasma gin to move invisibly along the rip.

After a certain time the paper is moved from the apparatus and aced in a dye. The path of the oving molecules appears as a ng, blue stain and the scientists n measure the distance and rate movement.

The measurements of each sam- e of blood plasma are plotted refully on charts. Once this has en done even the untrained eye n notice the differences between e curved lines labelled "normal" d the charts marked "cirrhosis the liver," "tuberculosis" and oronary thrombosis" (heart dis- se).

Centrifugal force also has proved valuable tool in the Yale group's udy of disease.

The medical physics team's re- arch into hardening of the arter- s has been helped by a device known as the ultracentrifuge. The ultracentrifuge is a "merry-go-round" which whirls special plastic test tubes at speeds as high as between 40 and 60 thousand revolutions per minute.

Every small boy knows that a tin can filled with water can be whirled around at the end of a string without spilling a drop of the water. Centrifugal force is the pressure that holds the water in the can.

In the ultracentrifuge used by the Yale group this pressure can rise to 250 thousand times as great as the earth's gravitational pull. Under this tremendous force the different molecules in the sample of blood plasma separate, the heaviest at the bottom of the test tube.

The scientists are studying cholesterol, a substance found in every normal person's bloodstream. Hardening of the arteries occurs when this fatty substance begins to build up along the inside walls of the patient's arteries in lumps which the physicians call plaques. These lumps narrow the bore of the artery until blood clots form, often leading to heart attacks, strokes or apoplexy.

Blood samples from patients are placed in the ultracentrifuge, which is surrounded by heavy steel shields to protect the scientists if it should fly apart.

The "merry-go-round" begins to revolve, whirling the plastic test tubes at greater and greater speed until the tremendous pressure causes the molecules in the blood sample to separate. Then the concentrations of molecules are photographed with a special camera while the ultracentrifuge is whirling at thousands of revolutions per minute.

The "merry-go-round" is but one of the many applications of the science of physics in the field of medicine. Radioactive isotopes, electronic devices and many other modern tools have contributed to the development of medical physics, a new branch of science in the atomic age.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

That Labor Issue Again

tion, is determined by one's attitude concerning a number of lesser matters.

For instance, is the right to strike a complete and unlimited right, as the labor bosses maintain, or one which is subject to the public's interest and the general welfare?

For that matter, is organized labor one element among many in our national make-up, or is it, as so many labor spokesmen have argued, itself "the whole public"?

Should labor unions, like all other associations of human beings, be responsible for their actions and their agreements, liable for torts and breaches of contracts, enjoinable, etc.; or do they enjoy a special status of being beyond and superior to ordinary rules of conduct and statutory restrictions?

Are labor monopolies, under which one man, or three, or four, can dictate whether millions work or stay home — are these "combinations in restraint of trade" which are, or should be, banned under the anti-trust laws?

Should labor unions or labor bosses be allowed to "buy" political parties, as John L. Lewis and Sidney Hillman both did with the Democratic party, under Roosevelt, just so long as they can find individuals or parties willing thus to debase themselves; or should labor unions be placed under the same interdiction against political activities as corporations — a restriction embodied in both the Smith-Connelly Act and the Taft-Hartley Act, and voided in both of them by the indefensible method of non-enforcement joined in by two successive New Deal presidents and their attorneys general.

Most important of all, what is the ultimate theory concerning enforcement of labor legislation — immunity from such enforcement, which is the Communist idea, "dictatorship of the proletariat," actually the concept of many American labor leaders, whether they will admit it or not; or secondly, enforcement through police agencies and courts of law, which leads ultimately to the well-known "yellow-dog" epithet being applied to injunctions; or thirdly, through military force, which was the remedy urged six years ago by President Truman for the railway strike, and prevented from being enacted into law only by the eloquence of Senator Taft.

There are other kindred questions, but these are sufficient to show the nature of the statements which should be forthcoming from General Eisenhower to elaborate his own attitude on labor policy with sufficient definiteness for the American people to decide whether it is or isn't what they want.

Telephone People
You often hear people say, "He's a telephone man." Or "She's a telephone girl." And just by the way they say it, you can tell it's a compliment. There are good reasons why people generally feel that way. The telephone business is concerned almost entirely with giving service to the public. Telephone people quickly develop a spirit of helpfulness and a courteous attitude toward others, not only "on the job," but in their personal affairs as well.

EVERYDAY MIRACLE
An 8-year-old schoolgirl, caught in a downpour, calls to ask that the family car come to her rescue. A farmer picks up his telephone, orders for immediate delivery the new part he needs for his tractor. A home telephone rings, and the housewife accepts an invitation to needed relaxation at a luncheon. Truly, the telephone is so much a part of our daily lives we seldom stop to consider what a marvelous thing it is—or what we'd ever do without it.

Ps AND Qs
When your telephone rings, do you answer as quickly as possible? And when you make a call, are you patient while waiting for the party to answer? If so you're doubly right. Be Patient when calling, be Quick to answer when it's your telephone that rings. These Ps and Qs of telephone courtesy will keep many a call from being lost. They'll save you the trouble of making these calls all over again. And they'll save you . . . and others . . . the bother of answering a call after the party has hung up.
